Dear General Walters:

We are very gratified that you will be able to address the Tenth Coordination Conference for Directors of Training on Wednesday, June 13, from 1400 to 1530. The session will be held in the Foreign Affairs Executive Seminar auditorium on the third floor of the Pomponio Plaza East Building at 1800 North Kent Street in Rosslyn, Virginia (State Annex #15).

The Conference will seek to provide an understanding of current U. S. foreign policy as related to training objectives and programs of various U. S. Government schools and colleges. It will also furnish conferees with current information regarding the roles, capabilities and planning of U. S. agencies responsible for implementing U. S. national policy. FOREIGN AFFAIRS EXECUTIVE SEMINAR
TENTH ANNUAL COORDINATION CONFERENCE FOR
DIRECTORS OF TRAINING AND FACULTY MEMBERS

PURPOSE AND OBJECTIVES OF THE CONFERENCE:

The tenth annual Coordination Conference is designed for senior officers and faculty members of the U.S. Government schools and colleges who are responsible for planning and presenting curricula for courses or other instruction related to national security and foreign policy formulation, coordination and implementation. The conference will endeavor, through presentations by key government officials, to afford a common understanding of current U.S. foreign policy as related to training objectives and programs. It will provide conferees with current information regarding the roles, capabilities and planning of U.S. department and agencies responsible for implementing U.S. national policy. The conference is expected to discuss training requirements and needs for the mid 1970's. In addition, the conference will afford the participants an opportunity to discuss teaching methodologies, guest speakers and supportive reading materials.

ROLE OF THE FOREIGN AFFAIRS EXECUTIVE SEMINAR:

The current directive charges the Foreign Affairs Executive Seminar with providing advanced, short-term instruction on current formulation, coordination, and execution of U.S. security and foreign policy to senior foreign affairs executives of U.S. governmental agencies serving either in the U.S. or abroad.

Special emphasis is given in regional seminars to a coordinated interagency approach to policy formulation and implementation in Washington and in the field. Special attention is given to the Nixon Doctrine, foreign economic and trade policies, domestic factors affecting U.S. foreign policy, and problems of foreign internal defense and modernization.

The Foreign Affairs Executive Seminar, as the only short-term interagency training course in which senior officers of major agencies concerned with national security policies are convened, will endeavor to assist, as appropriate, U.S. government institutions engaged in related training.

Access to the Conference area is controlled and all persons on the third floor must wear an identifying badge. A Foreign Affairs Executive Seminar registration card with your name is enclosed with this booklet. (See page 8). Upon proper identification, this card will be exchanged for a badge when you enter the third floor Seminar area and should be left on the table at the third floor elevator when you leave the building.

Classified material must not be left unattended. It may be returned to the FAES Librarian in Room 3706 for storage when not in use. The FAES Library is open 24 hours a day, but is staffed only from 8:45 to 5:30 p.m. All classified material should be returned to the Librarian by 5:15 p.m. each day. Conference members who have a need to retain classified material after that time must make special arrangements with the Seminar faculty representative for appropriate overnight storage.

Classified material, including carbon paper, typewriter ribbon, lecture notes and other documents must be turned over to the FAES Librarian for appropriate disposal. It must not be thrown into waste baskets.

Classified material brought to the Conference from other agencies should be recorded with the FAES Librarian to maintain proper accountability. The FAES Library has facilities for mailing classified material to Conference members' home stations. Mailing slips are available from the FAES Librarian.

Any questions regarding security procedures should be discussed with the Librarian.
